A NOTE FROM THE CEOS:

Following years of close collaboration, the Greater Akron Chamber (GAC) and Canton Regional Chamber of Commerce (CRCC) have officially formed the Akron-Canton Advocacy Alliance (ACAA) with the mission of providing a regional platform for discussing, researching, and applying shared values and principles to public policy issues in the Akron-Canton region.

Alongside member employers, community stakeholders, elected officials, and government representatives, the ACAA advocates for legislative and regulatory priorities at the local, state, and federal levels – providing us with a truly unified front when addressing the most pressing issues facing the business community.

We strongly encourage members of our regional business community to participate in the advocacy process and help us bring greater leverage to our work in Columbus and Washington, D.C. We're very excited about the work ahead of us and as always, are deeply appreciative of our members' leadership, engagement, and support in our work of being the Akron-Canton region's voice of business!

ABOUT THE AKRON-CANTON ADVOCACY ALLIANCE

The Akron-Canton Advocacy Alliance (ACAA) is a joint effort of the Greater Akron Chamber (GAC) and the Canton Regional Chamber of Commerce (CRCC) to represent the needs of our collective 4,500 members to elected officials and policymakers for the benefit of jobs, investment, and growth for the Akron-Canton region. The Alliance aims to grow the regional business community's participation in the advocacy process, provide greater leverage to our collective advocacy efforts, and help drive a united approach from the Akron-Canton region on key policy issues.

MISSION

The mission of the ACAA is to provide a regional forum to discuss, research and apply shared values, principles, and policies to public policy issues that stand to affect the Akron-Canton region. The ACAA actively engages member employers, community stakeholders, elected officials, and government representatives on issues of shared interest for the business community and advocates for legislative and regulatory policy priorities at the local, state, and federal levels.

The ACAA is responsible for developing and recommending positions and plans of action to create awareness; educate and inform; support or oppose government legislation, policy, or regulations affecting GAC and CRCC members and the overall well-being of the Akron-Canton region. It is through this forum that positions on legislative issues are debated and established or, in the case of ballot issues, recommended to the respective Executive Committees and Boards of Directors of the GAC and CRCC.

If you have questions about the ACAA, the issues we're working on, or how to get involved, please contact John Rizzo, Vice President of the Akron-Canton Advocacy Alliance at jrizzo@akroncantonadvocacy.org.

The work that the ACAA is doing across multiple fronts such as Workforce Development and Immigration Reform will help ensure that Ohio can continue its enviable position as one of America's top manufacturing hubs. The formation of the ACAA is the perfect example of neighboring communities strengthening their voice through collaboration.
